VIPRide.com president and founder Sean Sarram has built an affiliate network that is not only the nation's largest, it also is fast-proving it's the nation's best. A software engineer with extensive experience in technology integration, Sarram personally wrote a custom affiliate management software program called Pegasus that tracks individual fleet specifications, service records, insurance coverage details, customer satisfaction, and vehicle assignments as well as other important information on the estimated 10,000 vehicles throughout the affiliate fleet. The system even stores images of each vehicle, inside and out, so clients may know the exact vehicle that will be used for their ground travel experience.

Benefits brought to corporate clients via VIPRide.com's custom technology include 24/7 emergency dispatch center, real-time confirmation and ride reports, customized client invoicing and management/user reporting and traveler profiles. Their service also includes a dedicated reservation agent to help assure consistent and quality customer experience.

"We select hands-on affiliate operators who excel in taking pride in the service they offer," states Sarram. "And, we drop in on affiliates when we travel to conduct inspections of vehicles and onsite service facilities, as well as a secret-shopper program."

VIPRide.com affiliates also pass a company certification program covering everything from vehicle service, chauffeur training and licensing and insurance requirements, physical facilities, office procedures, comprehensive quality assurance program and more.

“We’re the one-stop, one-contact company for corporate and retail clients anywhere in the world,” adds Sarram, who is now expanding his affiliate network to include major destinations around the globe. “We are becoming a company’s transparent ‘in-house’ ground travel department with a uniform procurement interface that streamlines tasks, saves clients time and money, and provides precise management and accounting reports that are customized to meet a client’s particular needs and requirements. This is something that has been done in the airline, hotel and rental car sectors for years, but not for ground transportation.”

“Making the ride easier and more enjoyable for our passengers and the corporation is what our systems and affiliates are all about. Travel is the second largest indirect expense for business today. Our goal is to reduce a company’s travel spending and deliver added return on investment.”
